DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 2, 4, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lee et al. (U.S. Patent 6,148,130 newly cited).

3. Regarding claims 1, 2, 4, 7 and 8, Lee et al. discloses a ribbon-like optical fiber core assembly comprising: a plurality of optical fiber cores 14 arranged planarly, at least one tape layer 24 and 26 for integrating said optical fiber cores into one body, wherein said tape layer has tensile strength higher than adhesive force of said tape layer to said optical fiber cores (thus enabling cable stripping as disclosed). Said tape layer includes a film base (tape), and an adhesive layer (thus rendering the tape and adhesive tape), the adhesive layer provided on said optical fiber cores. Lee et al. also discloses the method of separating a ribbon-like optical fiber core assembly defined in Claim 1 into single cores, comprising the steps of: bending said optical fiber core assembly to break said plurality of optical fiber cores at a predetermined breaking position; and applying a pulling force on said at least one tape layer in a direction of detachment from said optical fiber cores to thereby peel said tape layer up to a predetermined position. Lee et al. further discloses gaps formed between said plurality of optical fibers that are adjacent one another. Adhesive layer is interposed in said gaps as a result of compression bonding, after which the optical fiber cores are covered by the at least one film base (tape). See Figure 2.

4. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shahid (U.S. Patent 6,295,400 previously cited).

5. Regarding claim 5, Shahid discloses a film for tape core assembly comprising: a flexible film 2 or 3 capable of integrating a plurality of optical fibers as a tape, and a plurality of position limiting portions (adhesive disposed in between adjacent optical fibers are inherently position limiting portions) limiting the positions of said plurality of optical fibers wherein the pitch of arrangement of said position limiting portions at one end portion of said flexible film is different from the pitch of arrangement of said plurality of position limiting portions at the other end portion of said flexible film.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lee et al. as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Sayegh et al. (U.S. Patent 5,253,318 previous relied upon).

8. Lee et al. does not expressly disclose the ribbon-like optical fiber core assembly wherein said tape layer has a high flame retardancy.

9. Sayegh et al. discloses an optical fiber ribbon cable wherein the tape layer (jacket) has a high flame retardancy.

10. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the tape layer of Lee et al. having a high flame retardancy for improved damage resistance from environmental factors.

11. Claims 9-14 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shahid.

12. Regarding claims 9-14, Lee et al. does not expressly disclose the ribbon-like optical fiber core assembly connected with a connector or fiber array. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a connector or fiber array for further transmission to remote devices in a communications network. Resultantly, the ribbon-like optical fiber core assembly would be optically wired to the connector or fiber array.

Response to Arguments

13. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 and 7-14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
